

OPTION one for insulation at openings. Use standard block and half blocks with rigid EPS inserts. This small amount of thermal bridging does not significantly affect thermal performance, so this meets the DOE's definition continuous insulation; "... continuous insulation with no significant thermal bridging."

